BULLETIN.
Madison—State civil service laws prohibit any inquiry by the state civil service commission concerning political or religious affiliations or opinions of such persons or affiliations in an investigation into the discharge of a state employee. Attorney General Herman L. Eklund (today advised Secretary A. B. Gurey of the civil service commission.

The attorney general also informed Secretary Gurey that the legal department had not advised Secretary of State Fred H. Zimmerman that the civil service commission was investigating the discharge of an employee, one to determine whether the charges are "their faces" sufficient and not religious or political, one to determine whether there has been no delinquency or misconduct before a certification can be made, and one concerning matters of enforcing the provisions of the civil service laws.

Madison—Abolition of the state civil service commission will be sought in the next legislature, according to an announcement received from State Senator John Schumann (D-Watertown). Senator Schumann declared he will introduce a bill calling for abolition of the commission.

The commission's procedure in the investigation of the discharge of an employee, Mr. Schumann also was attacked by Mr. Schumann.

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF
According to Plutarch, Dyonysius, the elder said, upon being asked if he was at leisure, "No, nor do I ever expect to be."

If anyone the first of this week had asked Mr. Newman, Black Bridge Road, whether he was at leisure, we feel quite sure he would have replied, "No, nor do I ever expect to be."

Mr. Newman inserted a "For Rent" ad in the Gazette and was pleasantly surprised at being kept continually busy answering inquiries of those who were interested in renting his house.

The first day the ad appeared Mr. Newman had answered so many inquiries that he decided to rest a bit, so he closed up his house and went out for the rest of the day.

They are both old, old stories—the one about old Dyonysius and the one about the result-power of Gazette ads.

The latest word from government officials was that the island was quiet, except around Cienfuegos and Trinidad, on the south coast of Santa Clara province, where it was said that not more than 50 to 60 men are in revolt.

A morning paper, temporarily suppressed some weeks ago for saying a revolution was starting, declared today that the "Veterans" and "Patriots" association had ordered an uprising throughout the island.

It was believed to be in an effort to forestall such a movement that the government arrested five leaders here and several scores of others in Santa Clara.

BULLETIN.
Madison—Investigation by the board of control into liquor conditions in the vicinity of the state psychiatric hospital and Mendota hospital has been instituted as a result of the drowning on Wednesday of Louis Albers, patient at the hospital. A force of prohibition agents has been placed at the hospitals to prevent patients from obtaining further liquor.

One of the proposals to prevent liquor smuggling into state charitable institutions which the board is considering, officials said, is the establishment of zones around each of the institutions which will be guarded and from which liquor smugglers would be prohibited.

The board is considering a campaign to rid the territory in the neighborhood of all state institutions of booze dispensing places, a statement by the secretary said. The board has brought this to the attention of the legislature after the report was made, the board called in the prohibition director and plans were made for cleanup.

Financing Plan Adopted to Assure Construction of Golf Course This Year

Janesville's proposed municipal golf course in Riverside Park was advanced closer to an actuality Thursday night when a method of financing was adopted at a meeting in the city hall, attended by 50 men and women.

With it definitely understood that the city government will not be in a position this year to pay out any money for public golf, but will place sufficient land at the disposal of public golfers for an 18-hole course, a three-fold plan for the raising of money was promulgated, following the report of a special committee that investigated the matter. The plan is as follows:

1. To solicit contributions to the amount of $1,000 from individuals or firms in the city.
2. To sell coupon books at $10 each, entitling the holder to the right to play 10 holes of 18 holes each of golf, these books to be good only for 1924.
3. To charge a fee of 25 cents for 18 holes or 50 cents for 36 holes, to those who desire to play the course, but who do not have coupon books.

Financial Drive Next.

A committee of five, appointed immediately after the meeting, started as soon as possible to procure subscriptions and to sell the coupon books. Such action will be taken at a meeting of the board of directors 8 p. m. Saturday, in the editorial rooms of the Gazette.

Action from now on will probably take the course of staking the financial members of the board, the building of a golf architect to Janesville as soon as a topographical map of the park is finished by men of the city engineer's department, who are not rushing to the construction of the course by that architect, and then the start of actual construction.

Would Strike 18 Holes.

It was brought out Thursday night that there should be playing on the links this year in about two months after construction is started. All members will be subject to the approval of City Manager Henry Tucker and the taxpayers are assured by those who are working for the links that there will be no expense to them.

It is the aim of the city to stake out 18 holes, but to confine construction to nine holes. Portions of the land of the park are now being plowed by farmers who have leased those sections. These farmers are sowing clover in with their grain so that the ground will be in good shape for further work on the golf course next season.

In articles of organization adopted Thursday night, the organization that will supervise the course until such time as the city shall take it over, and under direction of the city, will be known as the Janesville Municipal Golf Club. Membership may be had by any person subscribing to an amount of $10.

Will Be Self-Supporting.

In addition to laying out the course by a competent architect, and financing that operation, the club states one of its objects is to make the course "the property of the people of Janesville and the operation and maintenance of such course the function of the city government at such date as same shall appear practicable to the city. It is the purpose of this club to make the operation of this course entirely free of expense to the people of the city until taken over by the city, except as to the cost of playing and such course should eventually become self-supporting."

Want Golf This Year.

It was decided Thursday night that the board of directors shall consist of the officers and three others, a total of seven. Additional directors were elected as follows: J. A. Steiner, general secretary of the J. M. C. A.; George Gilman, of the Parker Pen Company; and H. R. Jiles, publisher of the Gazette.

Cost of construction this year will not be determined until after an architect has given his estimate. An outside figure being held probable is $2,000, with some thought that the work may be done for $1,800.

Purpose of forming club. It is stated it is merely to make it possible to have golf this year, rather than wait until the city might be able to finance such a move. It was pointed out that there still will be sufficient ground for every other recreational activity that may utilize the park and that it is the intention of the city government to include every form of recreation in its park plan.

Want Many Trees.

Wherever public golf courses are in operation, a small fee is charged the golfer for the privilege of playing on the links. The fee is one cent. The exception due to partial state operation of the park there and to a large donation by one of its wealthy citizens.

A resolution was adopted Thursday night that wherever a tree is taken to make room for pathways on the course, another will be planted somewhere else in the park. However, it was stated, very few trees will be removed, for they form a beautiful landscape.

Kenosha Tours Park.

Thursday afternoon, the following committee of those interested in the club made a tour of the park: E. S. Daines, treasurer; Frank Traver, secretary; Frank Sinclair, president; Dr. Emil Schweizer, A. J. Olson, W. R. McNeil and E. A. Carlson, supervisor of parks of the city of Kenosha.

Speaking to the gathering Thursday night, Mr. Carlson said:

"I want to congratulate Janesville on the site it has. I can say that I have never seen any more beautiful site than you have here right along your river front. * * * The day of the park built for its beauty alone is gone and now parks must be built upon the lines of recreation. A public golf course will make your park attractive at once, make it a center for the people and bring all the other recreations along with it.

You can include 18 holes in your park, provide every other facility known for recreation, and still have park space left.

As to expense of construction, it cost $1,800 a year at Hillsdale, Mich."

Course Is Self-Supporting.

Mr. Carlson stated that the municipal golf course must be made as simple as possible. He wanted it made clear that it is not necessary for a person to know the game in order to start playing on a municipal course and enjoy himself as to recreation. He declared that the biggest day last summer on the 9-hole Kenosha course was 450 in one day and in that city the cost of maintenance, after expenses were paid was but 50 cents more than the receipts from players. He favored the employment of a golf architect to lay out a course and also a business manager to handle its operation.

Speaking of other things than golf, Mr. Carlson said:

"You have a fine opportunity in your park for winter sports, as tobogganing and skiing. Such things, though requiring more equipment, make your park popular the year round."

The committee that inspected the ground Thursday expressed its surprise at finding such a vast extent of land and was enthusiastic that a beautiful course could be constructed.

"I Keep It Busy"

"There's not a handier bottle on my shelves than Mapleine," she said. "It seems to me that I keep it busy almost every day in one manner or another.

"Yesterday I made a rich delicious syrup with it. Today I am making a cake icing. I have just sampled it and am sure the family will like it. Tomorrow I may be making candies with it, or flavoring a pudding sauce. There seems almost no limit to its different uses."

IRON DOORS CLANG BEHIND GOVERNOR

McCray Now Is Simply Convict No. 17,746 in Atlanta Federal Prison.

(By Associated Press.)

Atlanta.—Two years ago Governor Warren T. McCray was a distinguished visitor to Atlanta when he attended the Southern fair here in personal charge of an exhibit of the cattle from one of his Indiana farms. He departed happily with many blue ribbons.

Today he is just one of more than 2,000 inmates of the Atlanta Federal penitentiary. Within the brief span of 48 hours he was changed from governor to convict.

The complete yesterday was made complete yesterday by the great iron gates of the prison clanged behind him. Inside, he was bathed, assigned a cell and a regulation blue denim uniform—and became simply "number 17,746."

Former Governor McCray arrived here by train yesterday from Indianapolis with a large party of federal prisoners, to begin serving a 10 year sentence for using the mails to defraud. A federal jailer noted that he was laboring under which he was laboring was apparent in the crowded station but he later greeted newspaper men and a few of his friends warmly.

At the prison there were no formalities. He was received just as any ordinary prisoner is admitted, and taken to his cell as soon as the routine assignments were made.

To outsiders there was nothing dramatic about his entry through the penitentiary gates. He did not look back nor did he realize, perhaps, that the guard who admitted him was a native of Indiana. His only statement was:

"I will enter on the new situation with courage and confidence, fully conscious of my innocence of any wrong doing."

Two-day phone conference ends.

Contributes Art to Coast Exhibit

Mr. E. B. La Piere, formerly Miss Ella Brown of this city, is one of the leading contributors to a successful art exhibit being conducted in Claremont, Cal., by the Indian Hills Studios, a recently formed organization of artists of that city.

The daughter of the late E. Tracy Brown, Mrs. La Piere spent her childhood in Janesville and moved to Oakland at the time of her marriage, later living in Reno. Following her husband's death, she returned to this city where she resided a short time until she took up her residence in California.

A dispatch from Claremont describing the beauty of the art exhibit has the following to say in praise of five paintings contributed by Mrs. La Piere:

"Symphony," a canvas by Mrs. E. B. La Piere, shows blues of a richer hue late in the day. * * * The pictures which Mrs. La Piere contributed will perhaps be more popular than any others shown. "Afternoon" has an unusual quality of transparency. "Port" is a small thing of exquisite color with the creamy uncertain tints of a dull day at the coast while "Mission San Juan" is a study in California color in land and California sunlight. "After the Rain" is another exquisite bit."

TWO CONFESS TO CLOTHING THEFTS

Janesville and Beloit Merchants Identify Suits Recovered in Belvidere.

Thefts of suits of clothes from two Janesville merchants and three in Beloit, were cleared up with the arrest and confession of Harry Leonard, 26 and Earl Compton, 26, caught at Belvidere, Ill., late Thursday. The two men were pursued from Rockford by police who suspected them of attempting to steal clothing from the C. V. Olson clothing store.

Two suits of clothing found in their automobile were identified at Beloit as having been stolen from the Varsity and R. M. Bostwick & Sons stores of Janesville. The men confessed they had stolen the clothing and are waiting to have confessed later to having stolen three in Beloit, two in Janesville and one in Chicago where they said they lived.

Leonard and Compton were taken to Beloit Thursday night and lodged in jail. Friday morning they were arranged on charges of larceny in the municipal court, Beloit, and their hearing was set for 9 a. m. Monday. Bail was fixed at $1,000 each by Judge John B. Clark.

Merchants who stood to lose their clothing, told police they were the worst enemies they had ever seen. The men visited the Janesville and Beloit stores, and one of them asked to see suits. The other then said he was going to the bank to cash a draft with which he had stolen the money. When the clerk went to the rear of the store about alterations, the first man hid the suit under his coat and walked out. His companion then returned, holding the suit and saying he would be back in an hour for the suit. Then he would not show up.

COUNTY SETTLES 3 DAMAGE SUITS BY PAYING $2,250

The three personal injury damage suits against Rock county with Catherine Dodge Martin, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Hooper as plaintiffs were dismissed from the Rock county circuit court Thursday afternoon following a stipulation in settling the litigation. The county will pay to the plaintiffs $2,250, of which amount it is reported Catherine Martin will receive the bulk of the settlement award.

The three suits resulted from a traffic accident in 1923 on the Janesville road used as a detour during paving operations on route 10 to Evansville, when the Hooper car crashed into a culvert ditch, which it is alleged, was not properly protected. The claim was not allowed when presented to the county board and suit started in the circuit court. The county petitioned to bring in J. T. Hooper as a co-defendant and after the cases were consolidated, a demurrer was filed. This demurrer was over-ruled by Judge George Grimm when the case was reported and the jury called for the trial.

Is "Business Proposition." After three hours of negotiating between District Attorney S. G. Dunwiddie and Mr. P. Richardson the two county board committees for the county and Attorneys Paul Grubb, W. H. Dougherty and Otto Gostreich for the plaintiffs, the circuit court judge announced the settlement. Neither party admitted negligence and the settlement was made as "business proposition" to evade the cost of trial and further litigation. The county will be obliged to pay court costs and expenses of attorneys and witness fees in the event of litigation. The county board representatives by a majority vote accepted the settlement stipulation.

Cochrane Demurrer Argued. The next jury trial scheduled in the Rock county circuit court is the suit of Mrs. Claude Cochrane against those associated with the building of the Foxe theater in Janesville, which collapsed and killed Claude Cochrane. This case set for May 19 but probably will be postponed because of demurrer proceedings. Arguments on the demurrer were presented before Judge George Grimm Thursday afternoon and briefs will be filed later by the contesting attorneys.

A new trial was denied in the auto accident case of William Shores against Alfred Halverson.

The decision of Judge John Clark, Beloit municipal judge, in the Charles B. Doughty vs. William Strong, Jr., auto accident case was affirmed by Judge Grimm. The verdict of the lower court was for the plaintiff.

On Monday the case of the Carl Francis Co., against the Yellow Cab Co., is scheduled to be heard by the court.

Actors' Strike to Hit Large Cities

New York—Led by the Schuberts, members of the newly formed "Managers' Protective Association" joined their fellows in the producing managers association at their annual meeting today.

A demand for recession to the requests of the Actors Equity association for a new working agreement to embody the equity ship was expected from the new group. Should such a demand be rejected, it was predicted, that the Schubert Group would secede from the old organization. It was learned today that in the event of a strike it would be confined to the larger cities—New York, Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia.

Robert Harrington, vice president of Equity, anxious to learn the status of herself and "The Laughing Lady" company on tour, telephoned Equity headquarters and was told that actors in the smaller cities would not be ordered to strike.

WILL RULE ON STAUDENMAYER

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS] Madison — Although the question of legality of the removal of Senator George Staudenmayer as chairman of the special legislative committee has not been formally placed before the state legal department, Attorney General Herman L. Eken said today the department will be prepared to rule on the question before the committee meets here May 12.

Staudenmayer's removal is the climax of a series of differences between the chairman and members of the highway and legislative committees. As chairman of the senate highway committee, Staudenmayer was made chairman of the special legislative committee. The legislative committee was appointed to the highway commission by Governor Eken last fall and since that time has had several differences with the commission.

He recently charged A. R. Hirst, state highway engineer, with usurping the authority of the highway commission.

REMOVE BILLBOARDS ON DANE CO. ROADS

A few of the signs condemned two months ago were removed by the patrolmen but the majority were left for the patrolmen to tear down.

BIG EXPOSITION ATTRACTS 8,000

Auditorium and Gymnasium
Filed on Opening Day of School Display.

Attended by a crowd approximating 8,000 persons, and with exhibits of scholastic work such as have not heretofore been seen in this section of the country, the public schools exposition, which opened Thursday afternoon, is estimated to have drawn as many visitors as any event here to date this year, and an even larger number were expected on Friday.

The large auditorium was filled for several of the program numbers Thursday night, while the gymnasium, where the main exhibits are on display, was completely filled at all times. Many began to gather here at 2 p. m., an hour before the opening, and about 1,000 were in the auditorium when P. O. Holt gave his opening address at 7 o'clock.

Model Classes Interesting.
In the gymnasium, the booth receiving most attention from the general public was the demonstration here, where model classes were conducted throughout the afternoon and evening. Starting at 2 p. m., an arithmetic practice drill was given by students of the Washington fourth and fifth grades, with Donald Kelley, Webster Owen, William Owen, Jean Backshaw, Lorraine Blackley and Myrtle Henning taking part. This demonstration was followed by a penmanship drill by students of the fifth grade of the Grant school, Grace Havens, Frances Baum, Dorothy Swanson, Mildred Fisher and Evelyn Fisher.

These children of the Jefferson third grade took part in a health exercise shortly before 4 p. m., which illustrated the type of work being done in that line. They were Helen McFarlane, Bernice Zell, Linda Loveloy, Bernice Zemke, Clifford Lorenson, Lucile Grenavalt, Dorothy Ellis, Dorothy Fuzzell, Donald Richards, Irene Lawrence, and Rose Tamm. Silent reading by pupils of the Jefferson second grade followed, with 18 taking part, Frances Yahn, Jane Atwood, Helen Marston, Edward McKee, Carl Gatchel, Robert Lacey, Normal Russell, Margaret McNell, Merle Burns, Norman Ross, Dorothy Collier, Charlotte Hubbard, Gladys Lawrence, Helen Nelson, Evelyn Olson, Opa Brown, Dorothy Pond, and Donald Shawson.

Folk Dances Presented.
The program in the demonstration booth closed shortly after 4 o'clock, with folk dances by first grade pupils of the Grant school, Betty Freeze, Betty Cox, Beatrice Moore, Dorothy Wilson, and a showing of industrial art work, which is carried on in the Webster school opportunity room. Brush work was the vocation chosen for the afternoon, showing the great numbers who saw it were surprised by the dexterity of the children. Charles Grauman, Lyle Newman, Leonard Eckert and Frederick Hesler.

The evening's program opened with a penmanship drill by students of the Washington grade six, with Regina Spencer, Emma Olson, Betty Porter and Bertha Wolf. A demonstration of the manner of illustrating a poem was given by Lucile Weirick, of the fourth grade. Jefferson, while Vincent Waggoner and Arthur Badger took part in the geography map study. They are of the Adams grade six.

The closing number Thursday night was a music appreciation exercise by Genevieve Wixson, Kathleen McGane, Dorothy Siam, Irene Leeder and Glen Smith, of the Garfield sixth grade.

Plaster Models Shown.
Among the many features of the exhibits in the various booths this year, are models illustrating almost every subject. Among the more elaborate ones are those in the senior high school foreign language booth, where plaster models of many of the ancient Roman buildings may be seen; junior high English booth, with models of the stockade of "Treasure Island," and the lists of "vanquished" players in football, where one of the most elaborate models, that of an ideal playground; and those in the Adams booth. The latter are toy stores, well stocked with merchandise, all made by the children.

Emblems for Athletes.
Displays which attracted special attention were those in the extracurricular booth, where emblems awarded high school athletes, and types of athletic clothing now being used by school teams are shown, also posters of "The J. J. and 'Blue-J.' high school publications. The dramatic club and Girl Reserves also display posters. In the music department section, instruments, presented by student organizations to the school, are on display. Figures on attendance, enrollment, plans of school organization and the management and one details of school administration are contained in the administration booth. A special feature is a collection of all text books used in the city schools.

Object Explained.
Proceeding the formal opening of the program, Sept. Frank O. Holt explained the object of the exposition which he said was an honest effort on the part of the 112 teachers to show what is being accomplished in the public schools of Janesville. Splendid cooperative work among the teachers throughout the year, he said, brought about the present exhibitions.

"These teachers are your servants," he said, "the schools belong to you and in this exposition the teachers and pupils present what they are attempting to accomplish. We hope that the building will be filled to capacity afternoon and night and we hope that this exposition will please you."

Under the direction of their teachers, the Misses Evelyn Kalkreuth, Frances Jackson, the kindergarten of the Jefferson school, gave a Mother Goose dramatization. Those who took part, appearing in costume, were: Gingerbread boys, Thomas Baumgartner and Gordon Fries; Little Miss Muffet, Lucile Zell; Humpty, Gordon Lovell, Robert Sculman, Thomas Snodgrass, and Claire Hammelund; Jack and Jill, Claire Hammelund and David Russell; Rock A Bye Baby, Geraldine Yocum; Mistress Mary, Jane Jacobs, flowers, Mary Eddy, Mary Ehringer, Sylvia Ross, and Betty Adams; Humpty, John Smith; Jack-Be-Nimble, Homer Slawson; Ride-A-Cock Horse, Annette Schiefelbusch; Humpty Dumpty, Clark Bond; Yankee Doodle, Albert Bond; Wee Willie Winkie, Albert Bond.

Schools on Parade.
Three selections, "Consolation," "Grief," "Confession" and "Yankee Doodle" were played by the Adams school orchestra in charge of Miss Flavia Blackley. The personnel of the orchestra included: violins, Mason Lichtfoot and Raymond Goodsell; clarinets, Leonard Quail and Kenneth Gray; drums, Bruce Strickler and Hugh Blackley; xylophone, Kenneth Wheeler and Joe Ette Gilcorn.

Sixty living models put on a style show, exhibiting frocks and gowns made by the pupils, under the direction of Miss Katherine Newman. Voice parts in the tableau were taken by the Misses Helen Woodman, Helen Hayes, Marjorie Parle, Stella Babcock, Avis Hips, Dorothy Kolwitz, Helen Thompson and Dorothy Harvey. Appropriate and inappropriate house dresses were displayed, clothes and evening gowns. Miss Norma Leffert played the piano accompaniment for the models.

With a viroloia accompaniment four calisthenics exercises were given by the pupils of the sixth grade of Washington school, taught by Miss Willmore. Those who took part were: Grace Northcraft, Margaret Ehlers, Betty Porter, Eleanor Goldmore, Anna Olson, Dorothy Whiting, Edith Lind, Walter Leichter, Ruth Bradley, Catherine Lovell, Chester Lindsay, Arba Townsend, Elroy Johnson and Regina Spencer.

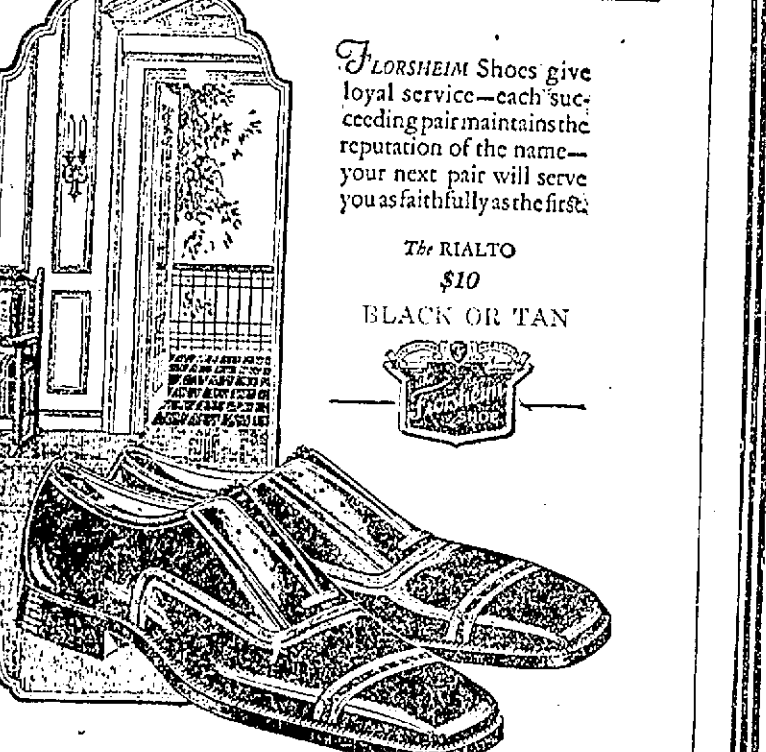

Two folk dances were given by children of the Jackson school in charge of the principal, Miss Ellen both Lillis. A Danish peasant dance was done by Marion Gregory, James Cahill, Genevieve Kuehler, Sherman Cahill, Frederick Mutchler and Donald Strossmann. Some of the smaller children of the school gave a "nostalgic dance." The "Water Song" was done by Marie Becker, Pearl Jensen, Cynthia Larson, George and Jane Elson and Alice Jungler.

Several Demonstrations.
Demonstrations with siphon, and air pressure pump were contributions of the general science department of the junior high school. Spontaneous combustion was also explained in an experiment. Those who performed the demonstrations were Jack Whiffin, Arthur Moore, Henry Schwager, Kenneth Little, Keith Van Pool, William M. Brille and Henry Teal.

The Junior Girls Glee club under the direction of Miss Mabel Showers sang, "Gone With the Wind" and "Turn Ye To Me" and for the final number a group of junior high school girls sang a picturesque dramatization of "Story of the Flag," by personification the history and significance of the flag were given back to the days of the Crusades.

Red Crown

The High-Grade Gasoline

Gives Better Carburetion

Thirty-seven nationally known automobile factories buy Red Crown Gasoline in tank car lots for testing purposes.

These manufacturers use Red Crown because it has made good—because after comparison it has been found to deliver more mileage, more power, less carbon, easier starting, greater flexibility, quicker pick-up, and smoother acceleration.

It is practically certain that your car was tested and proved with Red Crown before it left the factory and that its entire carburetion system is adjusted to Red Crown Gasoline.

These are weighty arguments why you should use Red Crown, but there is a more forceful reason in the unqualified guarantee of uniformity which the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) gives you with every gallon of Red Crown you buy.

Fill up with Red Crown anywhere and everywhere and you will get more mileage, better mileage, and better carburetion.

CARE OF ORCHARD WILL REPAY OWNER

J. G. Moore, U. of W., Details Considerations in Establishing Orchard.

"An apple a day keeps the doctor away," but there is an impending danger that Wisconsin farm orchards will not profitably perform the proverbial service.

Too many of the farm orchards in Wisconsin are money losers, according to J. G. Moore, horticulturist of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture. Too often they are left to rot for themselves and forced to compete with other crops for their food and moisture. Under such conditions they will not be sources of profit nor produce good fruit for use in the home.

Too many of the farm orchards in Wisconsin are money losers, according to J. G. Moore, horticulturist of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture. Too often they are left to rot for themselves and forced to compete with other crops for their food and moisture. Under such conditions they will not be sources of profit nor produce good fruit for use in the home.

Choose Site Carefully. "Four things need consideration in selecting the site for a farm orchard," says this horticulturist, "convenience, soil, elevation, and exposure. Convenience is the first, for unless the orchard is located fairly close to the house the care is almost sure to be neglected and poor utilization is made of the fruit that is produced. Convenience should take precedence over all the other considerations except soil, and it may be desirable in some cases to select a site with a somewhat less favorable soil than one which is not conveniently located but has a more favorable soil."

Moore believes that without reasonable favorable soil conditions, fruiting is sure to result. While various fruits need to prefer somewhat different types of soil, this is not of so much importance to the farm orchard as to some other soil conditions. The soil must be very important and it should be such that it will allow free development of the root system of the trees and the ready escape of excessive soil moisture without being so porous as to lose too much moisture.

Elevation is important. Orchards on low land suffer first from late spring frosts. For this reason, Moore advocates the use of an elevated site that has lower levels than the surrounding area. It is not so steep as to cause soil erosion, is preferable to a level site. Opportunity for air drainage is an important consideration in the selection of an elevation.

Exposure away from the strong, dry, cold winds which cause winter injury is desirable. As a rule, a northern or northeasterly exposure is preferred in this state. Near large bodies of water an exposure towards the water is usually a decided advantage, declares Moore.

An abundance of fruit, which the home should be the aim of the farm orchardist, Moore believes. While surplus fruit can be disposed of on the market, orchards intended for the production of fruit for the home need very different planning from those designed to produce for the home alone. A tract 115 by 200 feet, well chosen, planted with adapted varieties, and given the proper care will produce, when in moderate bearing, more tree fruit than can be used in the average home, Moore claims.

The Spray Rings. Spray rings continue to serve as an effective means of saving bladders orchards from insect pests. Started six years ago in Grant county by George W. Davies, then county agent, the organization of spray rings has progressed rapidly. At present Rock county leads in the number of such groups, while Lincoln, Jefferson, and Grant counties are also well supplied with such organizations.

Organization work this year is being done chiefly in Kenosha, Washington, Ozaukee and Winnebago counties, with rings being organized in Fond du Lac and Dodge counties. J. G. Moore is cautioning orchardists against getting too many members into one ring, or having the members live far apart. He has found that from six to a dozen constitute a good size for a working membership. A longer total distance than six miles between orchards means long drives and added expense. Moore says that usually a member of the spray ring operates the apparatus on a salary basis, while the different members each pay for the materials and time necessary for the spraying of the trees. When properly managed, the spray ring is an economical means of controlling insect pests. Many rings pay for their equipment in one season through the beneficial results obtained.

FRUIT AND POULTRY ATTRACTS FARMERS

By R. C. GLASSCO
Some of the farmers in Rock county are going into the fruit business again. They have found out that by spraying and caring for their orchards they can raise fruit very successfully in Rock county. J. R. Fairchild, Milton, set out a 4.5 acre orchard this spring, consisting of 15 Stark's Delicious, 25 Golden Delicious, 25 Staygreen, 20 McIntosh.

Many of the farmers in Rock county made a mistake several years ago in getting out a large number of early fall apples. These are a drug on the market and it is almost impossible to receive any remuneration for full fruit. Mr. Davidson will have quite an income from his early winter varieties of apples in a few years.

Frank Sherman, Milton, and his son, David, are going into the poultry business right. They have 500 hens at present and are getting an average of 25 eggs per day. They expect to receive 2,500 young chicks this week which have been especially bred for high egg production.

Mr. Sherman states that he believes the poultry business is better than the dairy business. On his 194 acre farm, he has built four brooder houses, a large poultry house, and has two large lots. One year ago he became interested in the business and now he and his son expect to make it their life work.

The Shermans are marketing their eggs in Chicago to the Drake and Blackstone hotels, through the Rock County Poultry association. Only fancy, selected, infertile eggs are shipped, and the highest price possible is realized from the shipments.

HOLSTEIN AUCTION CIRCUIT COMPLETE

With the top bull at $600, the Green county sale held in Monroe Tuesday night, an average of $142 when 45 head were sold. The registered Holstein bulls were in good demand, averaging $167. The top animal, Behovage Grassy Burke, consigned by Samuel Elbert Sr., Monroe, was purchased by Herman Gemmer, Green county, for $600. Another bull, King Dorado Toka, bred and owned by Daley Hestis, Monticello, went to Gilbert L. Hooley, New Chicago, for $500. The top cow prices were $195 for Ramona Leitch, consigned by Samuel Elbert Sr., to Lester Bondelund, Janesville.

The Jefferson county sale was held in Lake Mills on Thursday, thus completing the circuit of southern Wisconsin sales for this spring. All three auctions were well attended and fair prices paid for the good quality purebred stock.

GOOD CLUB LETTER. Clifford Cox, Leola, pig club member, reports that his club gift, a pair of 15, of which number nine were Clifford choose the three and will use the letter as the foundation of a blooded herd.

BRODHEAD

Brodhead — The federated clubs of the city met at the high school Tuesday night and elected officers. Mrs. L. J. Stahl was chosen president; Mrs. H. C. Putnam, vice-president; Miss Jessie Sprague, secretary, and Mrs. C. W. Seaton, treasurer.

Mrs. Stahl read a selection and there were two short plays. "The Charm School" is the name of the farce-comedy chosen as the theme play to be given at the opera house, May 9 and 10.

The Misses Pauline Hyatt and Irene Pfisterer went to New Glarus Thursday to compete in the district declamatory contest. Dwight Fisher and Peter Ten Eyck will also go to take part in the oratorical contest. A large number from here will attend.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hall, Oak Park, Ill., have been here for some days, in company with the latter they drove to Camp Douglas to visit relatives.

The Norwegian society will stage a pageant, "Christ in America," next Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Johnson will move to Julia soon.

Other club members who attended afternoon or evening meetings Tuesday were Mesdames M. A. Richardson, T. E. Hinkley, F. L. Durdick, Rex Durdick, Misses Margaret Vickerman, Maud Thiry and Lois Morris.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. James Tiffany is seriously ill at Morse hospital, Janesville. Mr. and Mrs. John Wright were Milwaukee visitors Wednesday. A NATION WITHOUT A COUNTRY

COMMENT ON THE INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON FOR MAY 4, 1921.

Read 2 Kings, 11 to 17.

WM. SOUTHERN, JR.

When Edward Everett Hale penned his immortal classic "The Man Without a Country," he depicted the most awful punishment we can conceive. He told of a young army officer of the United States who said that he wished he might never hear the name of the United States spoken nor see the flag again. The young officer was given his wish. He was stripped of his uniform and never allowed to set foot on his home land, to see the stars and stripes waving over the vessel where he was confined, or at any place where the United States ruled. He was not allowed a book or a newspaper in which reference to the United States was made. He was banished from his native land with the bitter taste of his banishment ever in his mouth.

This was the punishment which the Israelites met and for much the same reasons. They had violated every tradition of their country. They had forgotten God and flouted his authority and had abandoned all his teachings. Their leaders were taken away to Babylon in chains, others fled across the borders from the wrath of their conquerors and still others, more fortunate were enabled to escape to their kindred in Judah. Strangers came into the land and it became the home of the Samaritans, despised of all pure bred Jews even unto the time of Christ.

From the time when Solomon died and Jerusalem was elected King, the nation went down hill. In 250 years there were nine dynasties. Kings were murdered by ambitious followers, families were destroyed to the very children. Property rights were violated, loyalty was unknown, women were leeches. The whole kingdom was filled with grafting officials, the temples were turned into places of debauchery and drunkenness, virtue was held as nothing. Amos warned them and was run out of town. Elijah threw fire into Abah, but the best he could do was to tell them what should happen.

King followed King, each one a little worse than the other, until the nation was overwhelmed and the leaders carried away in chains as slaves. The text of this lesson puts it in this way:

"And the children of Israel did secretly the things which were not right in the sight of Jehovah their God."

Therefore Jehovah was very angry with Israel, and removed them out of his sight."

The final act in the drama was a double crossing. King who got what was coming to him. Hoshea, the last king of Israel, got the throne by treachery. He paid tribute to Assyria and secretly conspired with Egypt.

He tried to double-cross Assyria. The king to whom his tribute was due, found it out and whiped out the country. It took him three years but he stuck to the job until it was finished.

Riches formerly had wings, but now they have wheels.

Some of those who read this may say I am superstitious and not reasonable, but I believe that the reasons for the fall of Israel given in the books of Kings account exactly for what happened to that ill-fated nation. Through the whole story of the Hebrews, from Abraham to Solomon, the Priestly historians said that God blessed these people when they did right and punished them when they did wrong. They were exactly right about it and the same God punishes today.

We do not have to go back three thousand years for our illustration. Centuries of misrule in Russia brought about the present Soviet government. Rootless, wicked, greedy and tyrannical kings in France brought the awful revolution. Good on the part of Germany brought about the most awful war the world has ever known and cast that proud nation into the dust of impotence.

Our own nation is young yet. It has fought and won many battles. Our ideals are high. We stand for truth, for virtue, for decency, for the rights of property, for justice in the courts, for a fair distribution of the fruits of the earth and of labor, for honesty of contract and uprightness in office, and we believe in God.

So long as these remain our good heritage, so long as we stand firm and get our faces like flint and turn thumbs down with granite eyes to which there is no mercy for those who betray us, and the things in which we believe, just so long will our nation stand.

It is all written in the book. The causes which brought about the fall of Israel have brought about the fall of many nations since that day and will bring about the fall of ours if we heed not the words of God and his law.

"Babylon, Greece and Rome—Bled earth their prey, They were the lords of earth—Now, where are they?"

"America, England, France—Ruled land and sea; When time has gone its round, Where will they be?"

others, more fortunate were enabled to escape to their kindred in Judah. Strangers came into the land and it became the home of the Samaritans, despised of all pure bred Jews even unto the time of Christ.

From the time when Solomon died and Jerusalem was elected King, the nation went down hill. In 250 years there were nine dynasties. Kings were murdered by ambitious followers, families were destroyed to the very children. Property rights were violated, loyalty was unknown, women were leeches. The whole kingdom was filled with grafting officials, the temples were turned into places of debauchery and drunkenness, virtue was held as nothing. Amos warned them and was run out of town. Elijah threw fire into Abah, but the best he could do was to tell them what should happen.

King followed King, each one a little worse than the other, until the nation was overwhelmed and the leaders carried away in chains as slaves. The text of this lesson puts it in this way:

"And the children of Israel did secretly the things which were not right in the sight of Jehovah their God."

Therefore Jehovah was very angry with Israel, and removed them out of his sight."

The final act in the drama was a double crossing. King who got what was coming to him. Hoshea, the last king of Israel, got the throne by treachery. He paid tribute to Assyria and secretly conspired with Egypt.

He tried to double-cross Assyria. The king to whom his tribute was due, found it out and whiped out the country. It took him three years but he stuck to the job until it was finished.

CONGRESS TO END SESSION IN MONTH

Unfinished Business in Senate Prevents Adjournment Within Week.

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1924, by the Janesville Gazette—Special Correspondence to the Janesville Gazette.

Washington—The White House expects an early adjournment of congress. The legislative program in the house of representatives has been virtually completed and were it not for the unfinished business in the senate congress could adjourn in a week.

But the delay in the senate will mean at least two days more work. Assuming that no filibusters are attempted, congress may be able to adjourn in time for the national conventions.

That the members may devote their whole time and attention to the presidential campaign and the congressional session anywhere.

The democrats will not block the republican plans for an early adjournment. They are in no mood to stir up the republicans to work any harder than they care to work. They are getting ready to characterize the republican record as a "do nothing" session anywhere.

Quit and Go Home
There are signs that the business interests of the country want congress to finish its work and go home. The long delay in handling the tax revision bill has not helped business. The thought is advanced that when congress once acts on the tax program and business knows exactly what taxes it must pay out of the income being earned during 1924 much of the uncertainty which has begun to envelop industry here and there will disappear. Also, the present bill carries in it a flat reduction of 25 per cent on 1923 incomes on which the quarterly installment already has been made. When the public knows definitely that sums already laid aside for tax payments will be saved, a perceptible increase in the buying power of the nation is expected to be noted.

Few differences between the house and the senate on the question of tax revision have arisen and none that cannot be ironed out quickly in conference.

Labor and Agriculture
Congress has not adopted an agricultural bill, and there are indications that labor will press for passage of the Howell bill, which eliminates the public from the railroad labor board and substitutes representatives of capital and labor alone.

The late President Harding thought the trouble with the railroad labor board was exactly the opposite—that the interested parties ought to be eliminated and the whole board made up of disinterested representatives of the public. Mr. Coolidge will probably share that view, though the chief basis for a veto, if the bill comes to him for action, will be his objection to the expenditure of $500,000 as provided for in the proposed legislation. No provision for that sum has been made in the budget.

The railroads are fighting the Howell bill on the ground that the present transportation act has not had a chance to demonstrate its value. A light on railroad legislation may precipitate a controversy over the suggested repeal of the so-called guarantee clause.

Investors have been worried about that possibility for some time. Should congress dispose of the question by failing to change the transportation act, the holders of securities will be considerably shocked. This is another important factor in the demand for an early adjournment of congress.

For the less the house and senate tinker with the business situation, the better the interested parties like it and the more chance they have for a business revival in the remainder of 1924.

The McNary-Haugen Bill
The McNary-Haugen bill will cause a real fight. It may even delay adjournment. The champions of the measure are in dead earnest, and the opponents are insistent that no such piece of legislation will pass. The differences are irreconcilable. They represent two schools of thought on agricultural economics. The public ideal is preserving an attitude of apparent neutrality but his messages to congress would seem to be a guide to his future attitude and there prevails at this time confidence that he will not sign the measure. The fact that the Norbeck bill was beaten is taken today as a precedent, for in that fight the farm bloc was shattered. A combination of southern democrats and eastern republicans beat the bill. A similar alignment would kill the McNary-Haugen bill and save the president the problem of acting on it at all. Some of his friends are sure he will not have to act on it. They want some agricultural legislation, however, and just now the Charles A. Howell bill seems to have administrative favor. It would attempt to coordinate farm co-operative organizations under a federal marketing board. There are enough things on the calendar to delay adjournment. The regular democrats and republicans will not insist on adjournment, but maybe the radicals will.
